Advice may be elicited from professional peers in regard to your case, without revealing your identity.

Client Privacy: Recent laws have been enacted for client privacy. It is important to know that emails and mobile phone conversations are not secure or guaranteed of privacy because they can be potentially intercepted. Therefore, by signing this document you understand that if we have correspondence by email or mobile phone there is a potential for confidentiality to be compromised.

Counseling Approach: The client is held responsible for his/her feelings and behavior while focusing on the "problem" rather than the symptoms. Depending on the therapy issues, various family members may be requested to attend counseling sessions. Although regular attendance will produce the maximum benefits, no therapist can ethically guarantee achievement of goals. The client is encouraged to ask questions about the process during the course of therapy, and is free to discontinue therapy at any time. Because of the nature of the counseling process, the client may experience emotional strains, and possibly make life changes which could be distressing.
